JOSEPH J. NOUGIEUR WANTS TO RETURN

San Rafael Flockmaster Prefers Sands and the Snows of the Desert to Life in the Army of "His" Country.

A. A. Taylor, county assessor of Grand county residing at Moad, lately received a letter from Joseph J. Nougieur, who is still serving in the French army. Nougieur formerly ran sheep in Eastern Utah, and is well known to many persons in Price. Shortly prior to the beginning of the European war, Nougieur returned to his old home in France to get married and while there the European war broke out. He had neglected to take out naturalization papers in America, was drafted into the French army and was sent to the front. He has seen hard service and has several times been slightly wounded. Below is Nougieur's letter to Taylor:

Dear Friend:—I will drop you a line to let you know I am alive and hope you will be in good health, also a Happy New Year. You must know I never get back to United States yet. I sure had some hard times in this war. It is very miserable work. I hope it quits so I can get back to my old place at San Rafael. The times are very bad here. I am at a hospital for 100 days, and will go again to Champ de bataille. I was hurt two months ago, but getting over it fine. I sure like to see this miserable war finish. Everything is bad here, all over Europe. Well, Mr. Taylor, I don't see any more news in this. Hope to hear from you very soon. Your old friend,

J. J. NOUGIEUR.

Address, Moades on Champagne Route, Alpes, France.

When first drafted into service Nougieur brought all the influences to bear from this country that were available, but they were of no effect in gaining his release from French army service. At least two attorneys were employed in his behalf. He owns sheep in Southeastern Utah that are being looked after by friends until his return. Many friends will be pleased to know that Nougieur is alive and hope for his safe return to "the land of the free and the home of the brave."

EMERY COUNTY MAKES EXCELLENT SHOWING AT THE LOGAN ROUNDUP

Correspondence The Sun.

LOGAN, Feb. 1.—About the most unique feature of the roundup being held here is the morning work being done by the attendants in the laboratories and class rooms where each does individual work and is free to ask any questions at any time. Here is a list of attendants at each class which shows how popular the work is. Veterinary practices, 109; grain and potato diseases, 59; automobiles, 39; poultry, 35; blacksmithing, 29; buttermaking, 11; race betterment, 39; greenhouse, 39; methods of teaching home economics, 53; domestic science and arts, 35; house decoration, 10.

Mrs. Henrietta Calvin of the United States bureau of education and the first woman to be appointed by the government to investigate the teaching of home economics, was a speaker at the college on Thursday. She emphasized the fact that women spend 90 per cent of the income of the family, hence should have some education in home economics.

Carl R. Marcussen of Price outlined to the farmer an admirable plan by which country and city banks should accommodate themselves to the needs of the farmer. According to his idea a bank should furnish reading and writing rooms and market reports for its clients and should also be headquarters for the county agent.

Frank B. Stevens of Salt Lake City told the farmers that before they could expect credit from banks they must keep their accounts accurately and show the earnings from the farm for a number of years.

Any woman whose house plants are not a success should send to the college greenhouse for N. L. Hansen's bulletin on growing plants. It gives all the necessary information in a compact form and will be sent to anyone free of charge.

The state wide exhibit of arts and crafts at the college are attracting much attention. Among the most remarkable of the exhibits is a silk curtain which was grown, spun and woven in Logan. Also a linen sample which was grown, spun, woven and worked in Cache Valley. A Norwegian woman is exhibiting several beautiful handwoven rugs, and there is a great amount of hand made lace and tatting from all parts of the state.

Among the ladies who are exhibiting excellent work are Mary Hansen of Emery, Mrs. J. Elmer Sessions of Heber, Mrs. L. A. Oliphant of Orangeville, and Mrs. Lucy R. Hagin of Tobar, Nev. One little girl, Miss Katherine Kofford of Castle Dale, aged 13 years, has a fine exhibition of handmade lace, and Miss Kofford took prizes on this work at the recent Carbon-Emery fair at Price.

The boys' and girls' clubs sweepstakes champions of the state of Utah, Ray Smith (Sugar House) of Salt Lake City, who cleared two hundred twenty-seven dollars from one acre of strawberries, and Miss Bernice Roberts of Clearfield, Davis county, who excelled in fruit and vegetable canning, breadmaking and flower gardening, are in attendance at the roundup.

SUITED HIM.

Mr. Ratt—We've decided to make you warden of our insane asylum.

Mr. Squirrel—How's that?

Mr. Ratt—You're so fond of "nuts."

STATE BOUNDARY STOPS RABIES WAR

LONE PINE CREEK, Cal., Jan. 29.—"King's Ex, my dog is across the line, and you cannot shoot him." This is the condition that exists in the town of Lone Pine Creek in Modoc county, according to a report just made to the state board of health by E. T. Ross, state sanitary inspector, who is in charge of the rabies war being conducted in Modoc and Lassen counties.

The California-Oregon boundary line runs through the main street of the town of Lone Pine Creek, and, according to Ross, the fight against stray dogs is limited in that the California hunters cannot touch the dogs on the side of the street that lies in Oregon.

In order to stamp out rabies that exists among dogs, cats and coyotes in the northern counties, it is necessary that all of the stray animals be dispatched, but according to Ross, the work is greatly handicapped by reason of the fact that the people on the Oregon side of the line laugh at the hunters and tell them there is no law on their side of the boundary permitting the slaughter of the animals.

L. B. Mallory, assistant secretary of the state board of health, has written to the Oregon board of health asking that this condition be remedied and that it co-operate in the rabies war along the boundary line.

Bacteriologist to Make Tests For Rabies.

Prof. L. L. Daines, of the department of bacteriology of the University of Utah and also state bacteriologist, is making preparations for the prompt examination of the brains of dogs and coyotes suspected of having been infected with rabies. The results of these tests will be discussed at the national health conference in Salt Lake City this week. The head of the coyote received from St. John's in Tooele county a day or two ago showed no trace of the disease.

According to Professor Daines the disease causes a peculiar pathological condition of the brain tissues. For the test, this tissue is smeared on a glass slide with methyl alcohol and is passed through a flame. It is then stained with a special dye composed of thirty-three parts of distilled water, ten parts methylene blue and a small part of fuchsin red dye.

If the brain tissue is diseased the diseased organisms show a special affinity to the red dye, whereas the other bodies show a like affinity for the blue stain.

HAPPENINGS MORE OR LESS NEWSY OVER IN THE KINGDOM OF EMERY

CATTLE DALE, Jan. 29.—The Emery-Sagehen road celebration held in the academy hall last night came off in good shape, though the snow blocked roads made it impossible for many to attend from any of the other towns of the county except Orangeville and Castle Dale, whose people turned out and formed one of the largest attended affairs ever held in the hall.

Henry Thompson of Ferron, district game warden who directed the operation of bringing the herd of elk into our county and installing them at the Elk Peacock ranch above Orangeville last week, suggests that either he or his county deputy, J. Wellington Seely, be advised of any proposed visit to the forest on the part of any school children or other crowd. There is some danger of accidents should the animals be teased, and it is better that one of these gentlemen accompany such party.

Quarterly conference of Emery stake will be held at Orangeville on Saturday and Sunday, February 5th and 6th.

Joseph Caldwell, one of Moad's good citizens, was a passenger on the belated mail sled last night. He was returning from Moad where he has been visiting.

Four wheeled vehicles of all kinds have been little in evidence since the snowfall and wind Thursday night. Anything and everything that will go on runners seem to be the order.

Our good volunteer snowcrapers have been the salvation of the townspeople the last few weeks. Had it not been for these patriots we would all have been snowed in long ago.

Mart Jensen, the new county road supervisor, was over from Huntington last Wednesday. He reports that little attempt at county road work will be made until after the commoners meet on February 10th.

"Uncle" Orange Seely returned last Tuesday after a five weeks' trip over the whole reservation country, being in one continual snowstorm since his departure. Notwithstanding the extremely rough trip he comes back feeling and looking unusually well.

There is some talk of the government taking over the uranium claims of Oscar Buebe and associates in the vicinity of Temple Mountain, where Heile and Joe Buebe are at present. George W. Brandon and son, Earl, are also down in that country, being associated with the sons of the late Chris Jensen.

Charles P. Gilbert, the forest service engineer who has been operating in Straight Canyon with a trip of local men, came down last Thursday evening and reports some three miles of swamping and surveying done in the mouth of the canyon notwithstanding the fact that the snow is waist deep there.

District court will convene on Monday, February 14th.

Mrs. Edna Williams entertained the Crochet club at her home last Thursday evening.

Born to Mr. and Mrs. Victor Anderson last Tuesday, a girl. All concerned are reported doing well.

James Jeffs reports 42.4 inches of snow since January 1st.

Mrs. George N. Kofford was hostess to a number of friends last Wednesday afternoon, the occasion being her birthday.
